DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on May 27, 2003 has been entered.
2. The amendment filed May 27, 2003 has been entered.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 42 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 2, [✓]“guideline” should be changed to --guide line-- for consistency and clarity with respect to the recitation thereon in line 1. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 40-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Art Unit: 3724

In claim 40, line 11-12, the recitation "a monitor line comprising an electrical conductor" is vague and indefinite as to what is being set forth, particularly since a monitor line, as disclosed, is a line on a monitor, and it is not clear as to what is meant by defining this line as an electrical conductor.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103© and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 40-43, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gautron, pn 3,398,620.

Gautron discloses a cutting method with almost every active step of the claimed process as best understood from the claims including cutting a substrate (e.g., T) having a slice line (e.g., D) and a guide line which is an electrode line/layer (e.g., 13), and detecting a position of the guide line (e.g., with 15, 16) and correcting the cutting position using the guide line. It is noted that all four sides of the work piece of Gautron have been previously cut without correction to form the raw material sheet. Gautron only lacks the specific work piece on which the method is performed. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to adapt the method of Gautron to gain the benefits taught thereby including a process for accurately cutting along a line in a sheet or otherwise flat piece of material, particularly on a substrate of a thin film semi-conductor device to gain the advantages taught by Gautron.

In the alternative, it is argued that Gautron is silent as to how the raw material sheet is formed, the Examiner takes Official notice that it is old and well known in the art to provide raw material that has been cut out without using a cutter position correcting step for various known benefits including facilitating faster and more efficient work piece processing. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to forming the work piece of Gautron without using a cutter position correcting step for the well known benefits including that described above.

Regarding claim 41, this claim has not been given significant patentable weight since it is not clear how the limitations therein further define any of the active method steps, and thus it is not clear how the limitations affect the claimed method in a manipulative sense.
